Autumn Announcements Supplement,
SATURDAY: 4 OCTOBER, 1902.

The Autumn Publishing Season.

THE lists which fill the following pages are compiled from the catalogues of publishers. It is obvious that our space permits only a selection from the books announced by each firm; but we have endeavoured to make this register of the Autumn books of 1902 representative, and to include in it nearly all the books of general interest. We believe that these lists will be useful to all who consult them throughout the present publishing season. Prices have been entered wherever possible. The order of the publishing houses is alphabetical, with one or two exceptions at the end.

Announcements.

DAVID NUTT'S ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR THE

Autumn and Winter Season, 1902-1903.

 Mr. Nutt has much pleasure in announcing that he has acquired the right of Issue of the following works by Miss FIONA MACLEOD.

THE SIN-EATER, and other Tales.

THE WASHER OF THE FORD, and other Legendary Moralities.

FROM THE HILLS OF DREAM: MOUNTAIN SONGS AND ISLAND RUNES.

These editions, printed in Morris type on hand-made paper, bound in attractive and characteristic cloth covers, originally issued at 6s. net, are offered until the close of the year at 3s. 6d. net each.

THE ORIGIN AND EARLY HISTORY OF THE CELTIC CHURCH IN GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND. By HEINRICH ZIMMER, Professor of Celtic Philology in the University of Berlin, Author of "Nennius Vindicatus," "Pelagius in Irland," etc. Translated by A. MEYER. Crown 8vo, about 150 pp., cloth. Probable price, net 3s. 6d. [Ready October.

In the Irish Saga Library.

No. I. THE COURTSHIP OF FERB. An Old Irish Romance transcribed in the twelfth century into the Book of Leinster. Translated into English Prose and Verse by A. H. LEAHY, late Fellow of Pembroke College, Cambridge. With Preface, Notes, and Literal Translations. Square 18mo. Printed at the Ballantyne Press on antique paper, in green and black. With frontispiece, decorative title-page, and decorative cover by CAROLINE WATTS. Net, 2s. [Ready October.

 It is proposed in the Irish Saga Library to lay before English-speaking readers a version, at once faithful and pleasing, of interesting and characteristic examples of early Irish romance, at a price which will make them accessible to all purses, and in a form that will render them acceptable to book lovers.

ARTHURIAN ROMANCES UNREPRESENTED IN MALORY. Minuscule 4to volumes, printed on hand-made paper. Bound in special art linen with design in three colours. Each 2s. net.

No. 5. SIR CLIGES. LE BEAUS DESCONUS. Two Middle-English romances retold in modern prose, by JESSIE L. WESTON. With Introduction and Notes. Frontispiece and designed title-page by CAROLINE WATTS.

THE EVIL EYE IN THE SUPERSTITIOUS BELIEFS AND PRACTICES OF THE GAELIC-SPEAKING HIGHLANDERS. By R. C. MACLAGAN, M.D., Author of "The Games of Argyllshire." Demy 8vo, cloth, 232 pp. Net, 7s. 6d. [Ready October.

 The most exhaustive monograph yet devoted to any section of Gaelic folk-belief, and an indispensable supplement to Mr. Elworthy's standard work on the Evil Eye.

SONG AND STORY. Poems by LILIAN STREET, Author of "Heartsease." 16mo. 125 pp. Printed at the Constable Press. Net, 3s. [Ready October.

 Miss Street's anonymous volume of lyrics, "Heartsease," issued last year, attracted the attention of many good critics, among them Mr. W. E. Henley, who has allowed the Publisher to record his high opinion of its merits.

POPULAR STUDIES IN ROMANCE, MYTHOLOGY, AND FOLK-LORE. Each number 16mo. Net, 6d.

 A Second Series (Nos. 13-24) will be started this year with the issue of the following numbers:—

No. 13. THE EDDA: II. The Heroic Mythology of the North. By WINIFRED FARADAY, M.A. [In October.

 This number completes Miss Faraday's presentment and discussion of the mythic and heroic Eddaic literature. No. 12 was devoted to: The Divine Mythology of the North.

No. 14. THE LEGENDS OF THE HOLY GRAIL. By ALFRED NUTT. [In November.

THE ANCIENT EAST. Each number, crown 8vo, paper, 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

No. 5. POPULAR LITERATURE IN ANCIENT EGYPT. By Prof. ALFRED WIEDEMANN. [Ready.

No. 6. THE HITTITES. By Dr. L. MESSERSCHMIDT. With Illustrations. [Early in 1903.

 Professor Wiedemann's fascinating study will be a complete revelation to all but the expert Egyptologist, as showing how considerable are the remains of early Egyptian romance, fable, apologue, love and drinking poetry, and how frequently the writers of ancient Egypt gave expression to sentiments and fancies which we are accustomed to consider as far more modern.

SHAKESPEARE AND VOLTAIRE. By TH. R. LOUNSBURY, LL.D., Professor of English in Yale University. Demy 8vo, xii.-465 pp. Cloth. Net, 7s. 6d. [Ready October.

 Professor Lounsbury's position as a Shakespearian critic of the first rank will ensure a cordial welcome for this the first detailed account of Voltaire's attitude towards the poet, whom, after introducing to France, and through France to Europe, he spent the latter part of his life in combating and vilifying.

The Biography of the Season.

THE LIFE

OF THE

REV. JOSEPH PARKER,

D.D.,

CITY TEMPLE, LONDON.

BY

WM. ADAMSON, D.D.,

OF WINDERMERE.

AUTHOR OF

"The Life of Principal James Morison, D.D.,"
"The Life of Rev. Fergus Ferguson, D.D.,"
"Knowledge of Faith," &c.

Demy 8vo, 380 pages, 15 full-page Illustrations, handsomely bound in art canvas.

6s. net.

Glasgow Evening Citizen.—"The biographer has accomplished his task in a most workmanlike manner . . . a graphic picture of the eloquent divine. . . . Good type, good paper, and substantial and artistic binding."

Christian World.—"Told with the enthusiasm of a hero-worshipper . . . . A well-laid out, thoroughly readable sketch of the history of a powerfully inspiring original personality."

Leeds Mercury.—"A worthy presentation of a great leader of thought . . . . succinctly and cleverly, as well as sympathetically, written. . . . A narrative that will heighten the admiration that is felt for Dr. Parker."

Glasgow Evening News.—"The reader is offered a close view of the moulding of the man from his youth upwards. . . . . Contains many interesting features and striking passages . . . . well printed, handsomely bound, and enhanced in value by numerous illustrations. . . The volume at once stimulates and gratifies a natural interest in the life-story of a remarkable man with a remarkable career."

Rev. George Gladstone in The Christian News.—"Will meet a widespread desire and afford delight to many. . . . A good volume, handsomely got up, and worth its price many times told. . . . Dr. Adamson has done his work well; he has rendered a substantial service, and with ourselves many will thank him for it again and again. . . . The reader is carried on in ever-increasing interest."

MESSRS. LONGMANS & CO.'S LIST.

LETTERS OF DOROTHEA, PRINCESS LIEVEN,

During her Residence in London, 1812-1834.

Edited by LIONEL G. ROBINSON.

With 2 Photogravure Portraits. 8vo, 14s. net.

 These letters were, with one or two exceptions, addressed to Princess Lieven's brother, General Alexander Benckendorff, who, after a brilliant military career, was, on the accession of Nicholas I. to the throne, appointed to a post of confidence, which, until his death, kept him in close relations with the Emperor. In his position as Chief of the Third Division he was also practically in charge of the political police system of the Russian Empire. The letters now published are all that have been preserved, and they are printed without omitting anything but purely family matters, which would have no interest for the general public. They cover the whole period of Count (afterwards Prince) Lieven's Embassy in London.

Mr. HEINEMANN'S NEW BOOKS.

JEANNE D'ARC,
Maid of Orleans, Deliverer of France.

Being the Story of her Life, her Achievements, and her Death, as attested on oath, and set forth in the original documents.

Edited by T. DOUGLAS MURRAY.

With Illustrations and a Map, 1 vol., 15s. net; postage, 3d.

The Times.—"Mr. Douglas Murray has done his best to show Jeanne in her true colours. The whole is executed with brevity and without effusion. Whoever wishes to understand the maid will find this book his most satisfactory resource."

ALL THE RUSSIAS.

Travels and Studies of Contemporary Conditions and Problems in European Russia, Finland, Siberia, the Caucasus, and Central Asia.

By HENRY NORMAN, M.P.

With 137 Illustrations and 4 Maps, demy 8vo, 18s. net; postage, 6d. [Second Impression.

The Times.—"He is a careful, accurate, and thoughtful observer; and in complicated questions he constantly shows a laudable desire to be just and scrupulously impartial. He shows himself a delightful travelling companion; he communicates to the reader in a pleasant, gossipy style a great deal of useful information."

DANTE AND HIS TIME.

By Dr. KARL FEDERN.

With an Introduction by Professor A. J. BUTLER. With Illustrations, 1 vol., 6s.

The Globe.—"A volume with which the students of Dante will need to make themselves acquainted. It has some interesting portraits."

NEXT TO THE GROUND:
Chronicles of a Countryside.

SIX SHILLING NOVELS AND STORIES.

DONOVAN PASHA,
AND SOME PEOPLE OF EGYPT.

By Sir GILBERT PARKER.

CAPTAIN MACKLIN.

By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS.

THE SHEEPSTEALERS.

By VIOLET JACOB.

The Spectator.—"The emergence of a book so fresh, so original, and so wholesome, as 'The Sheepstealers' is peculiarly welcome. We can cordially recommend Miss Jacob's powerful and engrossing romance. Her style is excellent—lucid, natural, unaffected."

IF I WERE KING.

By JUSTIN HUNTLY McCARTHY. [Second Impression.

 This story follows closely the lines of the Play at the St. James's Theatre.

The Times.—"A novel of exceptional distinction; the scenes are fresh and vivid; the movement quick and natural. It is seldom that the style of a romantic novel brings it so near literature."

THE WINDS OF THE WORLD.

By The DUCHESS OF SUTHERLAND.

With a Frontispiece by WALTER CRANE.

The Pall Mall Gazette.—"Fresh and original in conception, and full of dramatic incident; they are still more remarkable for their freshness as studies of character."

THE MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

By BRAM STOKER. [Third Impression.

The Times.—"A good rattling story of buried treasure from the Great Armada; of second-sight and ancient Pagan mysteries; of sea caves and storms; of haughty Spaniards; of subterranean passages and ruined chapels."

THE ETERNAL CITY.

By HALL CAINE.

His Majesty's Theatre Edition. Cloth, 2s.

A MODERN ST. ANTHONY.

By WALTER DALBY. [Novelettes de Luxe.

CHEAP POPULAR EDITION OF SUPERNATURAL RELIGION.

Thoroughly Revised and brought up to date by the Author, several new and important sections being added.

Some Opinions of the Work (when first produced).

John Morley, in Fortnightly Review, October, 1874 :—

"Hence the remarkable importance of the two volumes before us, of which it is not too much to say—and this may be admitted by believers as well as unbelievers—that they are by far the most decisive, trenchant, and far-reaching of the direct contributions to theological controversy that have been made in this generation. The writer, whoever he may be, has, in the first place, a keen hold of the real issues on which the whole matter must turn. Next, he thoroughly understands the nature of the evidence required to decide the issues, and this clearness of vision makes him a most satisfactory dialectician in dealing with official advocates. Then he has mastered the principles which settle the question of the antecedent credibility of the evidence adduced for the supernatural pretensions of our Western religion. Finally, he has learning, and this enables him to handle the documentary evidence with a force which no previous English writer on the negative side can have the smallest claim to rival."

Athenæum, July 4, 1874 :—

"We have been struck with his complete mastery of the literature. He knows well all German and Dutch books relating to the criticism of the New Testament, as well as the English ones. . . . He has the critical faculty in union with a calm spirit. Reverent withal, his volumes bespeak the serious notice of every one concerned about the records of religion."

Standard, January 4, 1875 :—

"It would be mere bigotry to deny the erudition, the logical power, and, on the whole, the reverent tone exhibited by the author."

Literary World, October 16, 1874 :—

"Independence of thought, keenness of insight, width of information, are attested in every chapter."

Matthew Arnold, in Contemporary Review, March, 1875 :—

"We call him a learned and exact writer from the diligence and accuracy with which he has conducted this investigation (the four Gospels); he deserves the title, and we take the liberty to maintain it. . . . But his point, we say, he has proved. No fineness of accomplishment, no pursuit of the author of Supernatural Religion into side-issues, no discrediting of him in these, will avail to shake his establishment of his main position, where the facts are for him, and he has collected them with pertinacious industry and completeness."

Scotsman, December 28, 1874 :—

"Not many months have passed by since this work was published, during which it has passed through three editions, undergone the searching criticism of writers of different opinions, and won a position which few theological works in this generation have attained or deserved so well."

Spectator, July 25, August 1, 1874 :—

"So far as we know, it is an unparalleled specimen in the English language. . . . The account given of the early Christian writers is a full mine of information on this subject, alloyed, indeed, with no small prejudice, yet so wonderfully faithful and comprehensive that any error may be detected by the light of the writer's own searching and scholarly criticism."

Pall Mall Gazette, October 27, 1874 :—

"It is not often that the gifts and acquirements necessary to the composition of so masterly and exhaustive a treatise as the present are united in the same person. The vast erudition alone which its author displays would be sufficient to place the work beyond power of imitation by all who have not devoted years to the close study of theological literature."

Cloth, 280 pp., 3s. 6d. net; by post, 3s. 10d. Ready October 15.

LETTERS ON REASONING.

By J. M. ROBERTSON.

In this work, by way of letters to his own children, to be read, as he hopes, by them when they reach years of discretion, Mr. Robertson attempts to give guidance against the snares of fallacy, without resort to the traditional machinery of logic. He has a belief that technical logic is to the practice of reasoning as gymnastics is to play—an inferior means of developing the organism; or, to put it otherwise, as the study of philology is to the mastery of a good style. In the present volume, therefore, he endeavours to elicit and stimulate the reasoning power by exercising it on actual subjects.

Glasgow Evening Citizen.—"The biographer has accomplished his task in a most workmanlike manner . . . a graphic picture of the eloquent divine. . . . Good type, good paper, substantial and artistic binding."

Christian World.—"Told with the enthusiasm of a hero-worshipper . . . . A well-laid out, thoroughly readable sketch of the history of a powerfully inspiring original personality."

Glasgow Evening News.—"The reader is offered a close view of the moulding of the man from his youth upwards. . . . . Contains many interesting features and striking passages . . . . well printed, handsomely bound, and enhanced in value by numerous portraits and illustration . . . The volume at once stimulates and gratifies a natural interest in the life-story of a remarkable man."

Dundee Advertiser.—"Dr. Adamson's research has been thorough. . . . The reader gains a sense of being brought into living intimacy with the famous preacher. The subject matter is arranged with tact and the Contents Table and Summary assist ready reference."

Glasgow Herald.—"Dr. Adamson has written a book which will rank as the fullest account of Dr. Parker's Life. The book gives a wonderfully vivid presentment of an indubitably great man. . . . Dr. Adamson's revelations in the domestic side of his subject's life will serve to modify conclusions based on the brusque utterances and independent attitudes by which he is sometimes judged. . . . The volume will be valued by multitudes who admire Dr. Parker as a Preacher, who recognise his genius and honour his invaluable services to the church and nation."

Scotsman.—"The volume recounts in a plain, interesting, and admiring narrative, the facts that have made up the career of the much frequented orator of the City Temple. . . . Throws light on his character and allows the reader some pleasant glimpses of his domestic life . . . . Will be read with an eager interest by many, and satisfy a curiosity not unnatural as to the personality of a man scarcely less remarkable in himself for all his well-earned fame than as a representative of the forces that maintain the spiritual life of England in spheres beyond the church which claims to be national."

The Sunday School Chronicle.—"We have a picture of the Minister of the City Temple, complete and more lifelike than we have before been able to realise. . . . So compact that the interest never flags, so personal that the figure most clearly in the mind at the close of the book is its subject, Dr. Parker. . . Style clear and rapid. . . Narrative admirably proportioned. . . . Wisdom and judgment shown in the selection of biographical material. . . . This life leaves little to be desired."
